April 2018 Washington, DC Market Trends Report
Home sales up 9.4 percent; median sales price reaches highest April on record

Washington, DC – (May 11, 2018) – The following analysis of the Washington, DC housing market has been prepared for the Greater Capital Area Association of REALTORS® based on analysis of Bright MLS multiple listing data by MarketStats by ShowingTime.

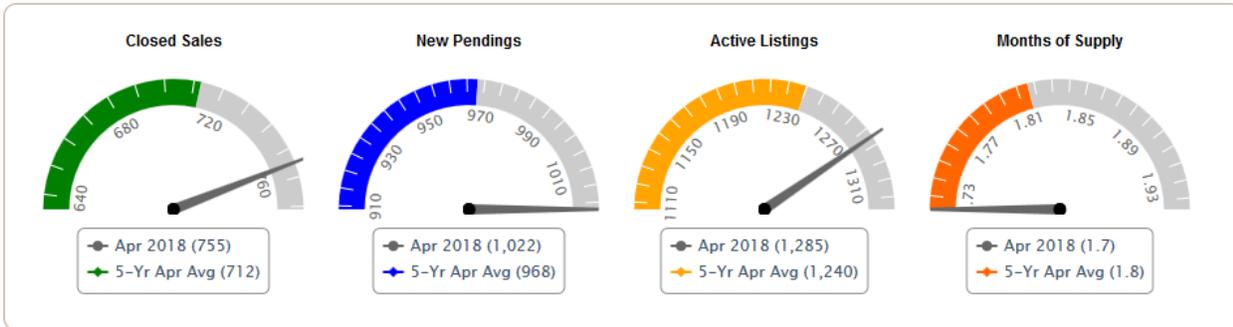

Overview

April’s median sales price was $590,000, an increase of 13.5 percent over last year’s median and the highest April level on record. The 755 April sales represented a 9.4 percent increase versus last year and above the April five-year average of 712. Even with the median sales price at record highs, supply is scarce with only 1.7 months of supply on hand. There was a 9.9 percent bump in contract activity compared to last April. The 1,022 overall new pending sales topped the five-year April average by 5.6 percent. Closed sales were down in condos/co-ops, but up in the townhouse and detached segments compared to last April. Half the homes sold in April were on the market for eight days or less and the competition among buyers kept the median percent of asking price at 100 percent.
